The Class of 1989 dedicates Caduceus to:

Michael J. Lambesis

Assistant Dean of Students whose commitment to the students has made our time at Loyola more enjoyable.

After receiving a Bachelor's degree in Philosophy and a Master's in Education at Loyola, Mike began his career as Student Activities Advisor and Manager of night time and weekend activities at the Lakeshore Campus. In 1979 he was promoted to Assistant Dean of Students at the Medical Center. Over the years he has spent many hours as a student advocate and event coordinator. We acknowledge and applaud his enthusiasm and hard work.

THANKS AGAIN MIKE!!!
Loyola University of Chicago, one of 28 Jesuit colleges and universities in the U.S., was founded in 1870. Originally located on Chicago’s west side, the University moved in 1909 to its present location, the Lake Shore Campus.

Loyola’s involvement with medical education only began during the early part of the 20th century. Recognizing at that time the need for a strong Catholic medical school under university auspices, Loyola adopted a plan of gradual evolution through affiliation and absorption of a few of the leading independent medical schools of the day. Thus in 1909, the Illinois Medical College was affiliated with Loyola University, followed in 1910 by the Bennett and Reliance Medical Colleges. In 1915 this loose organization was formally brought under the control of the university trustees as the Loyola University School of Medicine.

Loyola’s medical school found its first permanent home in 1917 when the University purchased the old Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery building on South Walcott Avenue, across the street from the Cook County Hospital. For the next 50 years the basic science courses were taught here, while clinical training took place at a variety of Chicago hospitals, including Cook County. The Loyola University School of Medicine was originally accredited by the Council of Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association in 1920 and has been a member of the Association of American Medical Colleges since 1921.

During the 1940’s Loyola’s efforts to improve its medical school facilities were limited by a lack of funds until Samuel Cardinal Stritch lent his name to an annual fund raising dinner that has become the main source of continuous financial support for the medical school. The Cardinal was committed to the idea of a Catholic medical center to serve the people of Chicago, and with his encouragement Loyola began planning the construction of a new medical school building. So important was the Cardinal’s contribution to Loyola, that in 1948 the medical school was named the Stritch School of Medicine in his honor.
The University considered sites on the south side of Chicago and in the northern suburb of Skokie before deciding to locate the new medical school adjacent to the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital in Maywood. The 60 acres available provided sufficient land not only for a medical school but for a complete medical center to serve the growing population in the western suburbs of Chicago. Construction began in 1965. The new medical school was occupied in January, 1969. To honor a generous benefactor, the teaching hospital was named the Foster G. McGaw Hospital of Loyola University in 1972. The opening of the medical center marked a new beginning for medical education at Loyola. Teaching, patient care and research would now take place in a medical school facility combined with a permanent university hospital.
The original planners expected a west side medical center to be well utilized but they could not anticipate the rapid increase in the demand for patient services that took place in the years after the Loyola University Medical Center opened. Within a decade, it was evident the facilities would have to be enlarged and in the 1980's the University embarked on a program of building construction and remodeling at the Medical Center. In 1981 the Mulcahy Outpatient Center opened. In 1983 one of the Veterans Administration buildings acquired by the Medical Center was remodeled to provide office space for clinical departments and the new Medical Humanities Program. In 1986 the new nine-story, Russo Surgical Pavilion, was added to the hospital, thus providing even more operating room capacity to the Medical Center.
Also in 1986 the Medical Center was designated a Level I Trauma Center for the state of Illinois. Then in 1988 the Loyola Lifestar Helicopter emergency medical system was made operational. And today construction is already underway for a new Cardiac Intensive Care Unit. Plans are also on the drawing board at this time for a new Emergency Room, and Hospital Administration Building. As for the future, Loyola University Medical Center will continue to grow in order to better serve the people of Chicago with the finest medical care available, just as Samuel Cardinal Stritch envisioned.

There is no real separation between mind and body. Illness is always an interaction between both. It can begin in the mind and affect the body, or it can begin in the body and affect the mind. A DEDICATION
TO DAD AND MOM, I THOUGHT THE EFFORT TO GET THIS MEDICAL DEGREE WAS DIFFICULT, BUT IT COULD NEVER MATCH THEIR EFFORT TO MAKE SURE ALL NINE OF THEIR CHILDREN WERE SUCCESSFUL IN PURSUING THEIR CAREER GOALS. THANKS. THIS ONE'S FOR YOU.

A FEW THOUGHTS ON THE LAST FOUR YEARS:

Who could ever believe that four years have passed so quickly. It seems only a few months ago we were all obsessed with the minutia of anatomy, thinking that it was key to know the 3 muscles making up the levator ani. Now I can’t help but laugh when I pass by frantic freshmen discussing such meaningless facts. And who could forget the coops. Besides providing the class with the best of THE FAR SIDE and the latest gossip, the coops sure spared us the agony of attending biochem, biostats, bioethics, etc. (you get the idea). After about a thousand or so tests later, and of course the BOARDS, we were golden. Or at least we thought we were golden, until we hit the wards and found out what medicine was really like.

Ah yes, the Clinical years. My first rotation: PEDS: I don’t think any of us had a clue to what was going on during our first rotation. Otitis media to the max, screaming babies, neurotic parents. SURGERY: Getting to the hospital before sunrise, leaving at 10PM. And of course those budding surgeons doing Pickleman’s service. Sleep was not part of the core curriculum. OB/GYN: What a thrill it was to deliver our first baby. MEDICINE: Our first patient presentation to the entire medicine service, problem lists, the case checkers; what a pain, and the never-ending scut list. The ultimate challenge: putting in that I.V. while half asleep on call at 3AM in an IV drug abuser with nothing but scars and probably a positive HIV. No problem, I needed the practice. I’m sure we will always remember our rotations at the VA SPA (they will never fix the elevators) and Bld. 51 psych ward.

But we all managed to get through it, one way or another, and for the most part shared some good times as well as interesting stories with fellow classmates, and generally worked with a good group of residents on each of the services.

But what made our class so special were the things we did together: the intramural softball leagues (go Scrubs), the class parties, bowling nites, gotta mention the Franchise three year volleyball domination, St. Lukes (and the great class skits), the golf outings, Phi Chi, PSR, AMSA, etc., etc. Best wishes to you, my fellow classmates, in your residencies and beyond, and thanks for making med school a very memorable experience. Paul D. Jagielo
Marcy Kamen

As I look back on my medical school experience, I have one thought for future students. Keep moving forward. For me, it was running. Somehow, my doubts and hesitations diminished after a long run. Did I regret medical school? Did I wish I could wake up and be an artist/my other love in life? Yes. But I kept moving forward. The peaks seem small; the valleys deep. But the light lies ahead if you keep running towards it. Good luck to all my classmates and all future graduates.

WAYS TO TELL A WINNER

1. When a winner makes a mistake he says, “I was wrong”; when a loser makes a mistake he says, “It wasn’t my fault.”
2. A winner makes commitments; a loser makes promises.
3. A winner says, “I’m good, but not as good as I ought to be”; a loser says, “I’m not as bad as a lot of other people.”
4. A winner tries to learn from those who are superior; a loser tries to tear down those who are superior.
5. A winner asks questions and listens to the answers; a loser never listens.
6. A winner is extremely loyal; a loser doesn’t know the meaning of loyalty.
7. A winner works harder than a loser, and has more time; a loser is always “too busy” to do what is necessary.
8. A winner knows what to fight for and what to compromise on; a loser compromises on what he shouldn’t and fights for what isn’t worthwhile.

The Antidote For Civilization

Thomas S. Pannke
Dr. Michael R. Rich - the youngest and shortest graduate of LUMC has today made an outstanding achievement in the area of medicine. He has discovered a cure for cancer. This magnificent achievement will surely win him a Nobel Prize and he will forever be remembered in the hearts of many. When asked what plans he had made to celebrate this joyous occasion, he was quoted as saying; “Mom promised to take me to McDonald’s and then let me stay up past my bedtime.”

Give every man thy ear, but few thy voice.
Take each man’s censure, but reserve thy judgement
This above all: to thine own self be true.

- William Shakespeare
Hamlet Act I Scene iii

May God bless each of us with a happy life and successful career.
And let your best be for your friend.
If he must know the ebb of your tide, let him know its flood also.
for what is your friend that you should seek with him hours to kill?
Seek him always with hours to live.
For it is his to fill your need but not your emptiness
And in the sweetness of friendship, let there be laughter and the sharing of pleasures for in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.
- Kahlil Gibran

One Night I Had A Dream
I dreamed that I was walking along the beach with the Lord and across the sky flashed scenes of my life. For each scene I noticed two sets of foot prints in the sand. One belonged to me, the other to the Lord. When the last scene flashed before us, I looked back at the foot prints in the sand; I noticed that many times along the path of my life, there was only one set of prints; I also noticed it happened at the saddest and lowest times of my life. This so worried me that I questioned the Lord about it.

"Lord, you said that once I decided to follow you, you would walk with me all the way, but now I find that during the most troubled parts of my life there is only one set of foot prints. I can't understand why in times I needed you most you would leave me alone."

The Lord replied, "My precious, precious child. I love you and I would never, never leave you alone during the darkest hour of need. When you see only one set of foot prints, it was then that I carried you in my arms."

Robert Sibilia
Contrary to popular belief, I shall not use my last opportunity to communicate with you all to honor Ray with another poem. Instead, I take pause to reflect upon the unusual collection of intellectuals, ne'er-do-wells, study friends, saints, and sinners who populate the Class of '89. I am certain that some of us rejoice at the prospect of never seeing each other again; some others may cry, fearing having to develop new friendships in new places. I, for one, shall miss seeing familiar and friendly faces in the hall. Keeping in touch may be trying in the years ahead. Most of all, I'll miss Mr. Holst in the Physio lab because he's been a formative force in my life. Remember... our green cadaver, defiled Freshman pictures, dog lab, walking into the V.A. for the first time, the United Nations of Pathology, Linda Wroblewsky, Boards, etc. However, I urge those of you who have worked diligently and sacrificed to become a credit to the medical profession and worthy successors to Hippocrates to remember as you walk up to receive your Ad Maiorem Dei Gloriam on June the Tenth that I shall receive the same diploma you will. Ha! Ha! Now that may be the unkindest cut of all. Incidentally, Ray and I like each other despite our amusing public exchanges. Good luck to you all. Farewell and stay clean. If you're not busy, I plan a reunion at Billy Goat's June Tenth, 2019. We should have our loans paid by then. Take care.

COOL IT! There is always someone better and there is always someone who has it worse.

"How well do you know this doctor? This is a warranty for a vacuum cleaner."
DOCTORS ARE WHIPPERSNAPPERS

Doctors are whippersnappers in ironed white coats
Who spy up your rectums and look down your throats
And press you and poke you with sterilized tools
And stab at solutions that pacify fools.
I used to revere them and do what they said
Till I learned what they learned on was already dead.

Can You Say?

Can you say in parting with the day that’s slipping fast,
That you helped a single person of the many you have passed?
Is a single life rejoicing over what you did or said?
Does someone whose hopes were fading, now with courage look ahead?
Did you waste the day or lose it, was it well or poorly spent?
Did you leave a trend of kindness, or a scar of discontent?
As you close your eyes in slumber, do you think that God would say—
You have made the world much better for the life you’ve lived today?

When first the call for staff members to work on Caduceus went out, a small band of students boldly came forward to volunteer. These dedicated persons have spent countless hours preparing the book which you hold in your hands now. Without them, there would have been no Caduceus. As their editor, let me thank each and every one of them for all their hard work and dedication to this Yearbook. I am sure that they will all join me in wishing that in the years to come, as we all go our separate ways, this Yearbook will allow each person to carry a bit of the Class of 1989 with them.

The success of the 1989 edition of Caduceus is due to the hard work of the editorial staff and the many contributions from students, faculty and the administration. In particular, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the following individuals:

- The staff of the Caduceus and in particular Voula Asimacopoulos, Paul Chomiak, Amy Rillo Ellingson, Sue Jason, Martha Kutashy, Carlson Wong, Carrie Altermott for their exceptional work on the personal half-pages and help in squeezing material from sluggish classmates.
- Mike Lambesis for all the hard work he put into this book by reviewing proofs, handling money and contract negotiations for us.
- Bob Vick and the staff of Medical Photography, for the endsheet photo and the faculty photos.
- Dean Michael Rainey, Phd., for pushing this yearbook off to an early enough start so that things have flowed fairly smoothly, and for his help in obtaining funding for our yearbook.
- Dr. Anthony Barbato for his generous financial support of Caduceus.
- Dr. Alexander Friedman, for the generous use of his office and computer in the preparation of this yearbook.
- Frank Bourget of Medical Alumni Relations and Linda Blaha of Public Relations for the historical photos about Loyola.
- Sue Wisthoff of Wycoff Portraits.
- Bob Weissbeck of Jostens Publishing for his technical help and speedy response to our numerous crises.
- All those who made financial contributions to Caduceus.
- And last but not least my fellow members of the Class of 1989, for whom this Yearbook stands.

In closing let me wish each and every one of you the very best of luck in all that you do. And I hope that this edition of Caduceus will go with you wherever you go, as a reminder of the Good-Times we've had these last four years.

Good-bye!!!
Welcome Members of the Class of 1989 to Loyola’s Medical Alumni Family!

The Board Members of the Alumni Association look forward to welcoming you back to Stritch for your Fifth and Tenth Anniversary Class Reunions in 1994 and in 1999.
