"That’s helpful information, but next time, could you please talk about high schools?"

Hank M. Bohanon
Loyola University Chicago, hbohano@luc.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://ecommons.luc.edu/education_facpubs

Part of the Education Commons

Recommended Citation
Bohanon, Hank M.. "That’s helpful information, but next time, could you please talk about high schools?". School Social Work Network, , :, 2020. Retrieved from Loyola eCommons, Education: School of Education Faculty Publications and Other Works,

This Other is brought to you for free and open access by the Faculty Publications and Other Works by Department at Loyola eCommons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Education: School of Education Faculty Publications and Other Works by an authorized administrator of Loyola eCommons. For more information, please contact ecommons@luc.edu.

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-Noncommercial-No Derivative Works 3.0 License. © Hank Bohanon, 2020.
“THAT’S HELPFUL INFORMATION, BUT NEXT TIME, COULD YOU PLEASE TALK ABOUT HIGH SCHOOLS?”

Posted by Hank Bohanon I Apr 26, 2020 I Interventions, Research That Matters, Tools for Practice I 0 ⬆️ ⬇️ ⭐️⭐️⭐️⭐️⭐️

“That’s helpful information, but next time, could you please talk about high schools?”

This comment was feedback from a school where I had given a presentation. All of the content was from high schools, but I just forgot to be explicit that all of it was from and for secondary schools. That is where I learned a valuable lesson: that if an example did not happen in a high school, it did not happen.

In my experience, secondary school staff do not like to have to extrapolate ideas from elementary schools to work in their settings. They prefer content that focuses on secondary settings. When you are looking for examples to help start your school-wide initiative, I think it helps to find content that matches the level (e.g., grades), and school demographics as much as possible.

If you go to the doctor, you want an intervention that matches your specific needs. Secondary staff seem to feel the same. Over time we have created or identified tools that might be useful to your work implementing school-wide positive behavior support (PBS) (embedded link: https://www.apbs.org/archives/new_apbs/genintro) in secondary schools. Here are some tools that might be helpful to your work.
NATION CENTER IN POSITIVE BEHAVIOR INTERVENTIONS AND SUPPORTS WEBSITE:

The National PBIS Center has a very useful page dedicated to high school implementation of PBIS in secondary schools (Link). (Embedded link: https://www.pbis.orgtopics/high-school-pbis)

HIGH SCHOOL-SPECIFIC RESEARCH

If you are looking for research on high school positive behavior support, here are a few citations. (I know there are many others, but this is just a short list; also almost all of the links are to open-access full-text versions of the articles):

BOOK: POSITIVE BEHAVIOR SUPPORT IN SECONDARY SCHOOLS: A PRACTICAL GUIDE
I like this book about implementing positive behavior support in secondary schools. It includes useful examples and practical guidance on implementing PBS in high school settings (Link) (Embedded link: https://amzn.to/2NstLdI)

TOOLS FOR SCHOOL-WIDE IMPLEMENTATION

- This is a great “Presi” overview of Schoowide PBS implementation from Woodridge State High School in Australia (Link). (Embedded link: https://prezi.com/xlo7_f0qerzn/copy-of-swpbs-conference-v3/)

- These are some resources that we have used as a part of research studies and coaching to implement schoolwide support for behavior in high school settings. They mostly focus on schoolwide supports (Link) (Embedded link: http://www.hankbohanon.net/examples/)

GETTING STARTED OVERVIEW

· We put together a workshop on getting PBS started in high schools. This is a link to a recording of a presentation of the materials for a Kansas MTSS Conference (Link) (Embedded link: https://ksdetasn.org/resources/1612). This is a link to the Powerpoint (PPT) (Embedded link: http://www.hankbohanon.net/wp-content/uploads/2014/04/KS_Bohanon__Getting_Ready_2017.pptx) and Workbook (Word) (Embedded link: http://www.hankbohanon.net/wp-content/uploads/2014/04/Handbook_KS_Fall_2017_HB_Getting_Ready.docx)
BLOGS ABOUT GETTING STARTED IN HIGH SCHOOLS

If it is helpful, there are a few other blogs I’ve done about implementing PBS in high school settings. They include information about starting the year off right and obtaining buy-in from schools: http://www.hankbohanon.net/tag/high-school/

This blog is indeed not an exhaustive list of high school content. But I wanted to share tools and resources I have found to be helpful for schools. I would like to know about any tools or sites you would recommend. Please feel free to leave a comment here on this post. I wish you the best on your essential work with schools. Oh, and for the school I mentioned, I went back the next year with the same content but with the words “High School” in title…things went much better…

Editor’s Note: Original version was originally posted on 9/27/2018 on http://www.hankbohanon.net/ and shared with author’s permission.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Hank Bohanon
Dr. Hank Bohanon has been a special education teacher in the Dallas Public Schools. He also has served a project coordinator at the University of Kansas for the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs research on positive behavior supports. He is a professor in School of Education at Loyola University of Chicago. There he founded and served as the director of the Center for School Evaluation, Intervention, and Training (CSEIT). He is a former member of the board of directors for the Association of Positive Behavior Support. His research includes three-tiered academic and behavior supports in urban and suburban settings. His current work focuses on supports for high school settings related to positive behavior support, response to intervention, social and emotional learning, and school mental health.