

CCIH SPRING COLLOQUIUM

Thursday
April 14, 2011

MUSIC of the JESUIT MISSIONS of the CHIQUITOS

Please join us for a colloquium focusing on Professor Gustavo Leone's "Music of the Jesuit Missions of the Chiquitos."

In 1767, the Jesuits were expelled from the Spanish colonies in South America and left behind a legacy of music making that was buried for a little over two hundred years.

Despite their expulsion, the music of the Jesuits didn't disappear entirely. Thanks to the indigenous people – the Chiquitos of Bolivia – this music was played throughout the eighteenth century and the manuscripts were preserved in the churches throughout the nineteenth century.

In 1985 the Swiss architect Hans Roth discovered over nine thousand of these manuscripts, and in 1990 UNESCO declared the churches of the Chiquitos a "patrimony of humanity."

Now, in the twenty-first century, Loyola's own Professor of Music, Gustavo Leone has hand picked four of these manuscripts and painstakingly restored the scores, thereby reviving a valuable and rare part of the Jesuits' intellectual and musical heritage.

For more information call 773.508.3820 or visit LUC.edu/ccih

This event is presented by the THE JOAN AND BILL HANK CENTER FOR THE CATHOLIC INTELLECTUAL HERITAGE in collaboration with the Department of Fine and Performing Arts. Funding provided by the College of Arts and Sciences and Maria McCormick.

Thursday, April 14, 2011
(All events are free and open to the public)

Simpson Hall Multipurpose Room

11:00AM–12:20PM | Lecture

Reconstructing & Resurrecting the Music of the Jesuit Missions of South America

Dr. Gustavo Leone, Professor Department of Fine and Performing Arts

12:45PM–1:15PM | Film

In Search of the Music Manuscripts

Professor Paul Hettel, Film Department Columbia College Chicago

1:30PM–2:30PM | Panel

Baroque Music of Latin America

Dr. Robert Kendrick, Department of Music University of Chicago

Fr. Charles Jurgensmeier, S.J. Department of Fine and Performing Arts

Madonna della Strada Chapel

3:00PM–4:00PM | Performance

Music from the Archives of Chiquitos: "Baroque Band" and "Bella Voce"

Directed by Garry Clark and Andrew Lewis respectively.

MUSIC

DANCE

THEATRE

VISUAL ARTS

LOYOLA UNIVERSITY CHICAGO
DEPARTMENT OF FINE AND PERFORMING ARTS