The Oath of Hippocrates

I solemnly pledge myself to consecrate my life to the service of humanity;
I will give to my teachers the respect and gratitude which is their due;
I will practice my profession with conscience and dignity;
The health of my patient will be my first consideration;
I will respect the secrets that are confided in me;
I will maintain by all the means in my power, the honor and the noble traditions of the medical profession;
My colleagues will be my brothers and sisters;
I will not permit considerations of religion, nationality, race, party politics or social standing to interfere between my duty and my patient;
I will maintain the utmost respect for human life, from the time of conception, even under threat, I will not use my medical knowledge contrary to the laws of humanity;
I make these promises solemnly, freely and upon my honor.
In 1870 Rev. Arnold Damen founded St. Ignatius College, a liberal arts college on Chicago's West Side. Initially consisting of only four professors and 37 students, the school was soon renamed Loyola University Chicago and relocated to what is now its lake shore campus. At that time, Chicago was home to several independent medical colleges. In 1909 the Illinois Medical School became affiliated with Loyola University followed in 1910 by the Bennett and Reliance Medical Colleges. In 1915 the entire organization fell under control of the trustees and became the Loyola University School of Medicine.

A home for Loyola's medical school was chosen in 1917 with the purchase of the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery which owned property and facilities on South Wolcott Avenue adjacent to the Cook County Hospital. On Feb 9, 1920 the medical school gained accreditation from the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

Loyola's efforts to improve its school facilities were limited by a lack of funds until the 1940's when Samuel Cardinal Stritch, Archbishop of Chicago, lent his name to an annual fundraising dinner which became a major source of financial support for the school. On April 15, 1948 the Board of Trustees approved a resolution to designate the school as the Stritch School of Medicine in honor of Cardinal Stritch.

By the 1960's SSOM began to outgrow its facilities and plans were underway for construction of a new medical school and 504 bed teaching hospital on a 60-acre tract of land in Maywood, Illinois. In honor of a generous benefactor the teaching hospital was named Foster McGaw Hospital of Loyola University. The medical school was occupied New Years Day of 1969 and the Loyola University Medical Center opened its doors to patients on May 21, 1969.

With the increasing demand for medical care, Loyola has continued to expand. In 1981 the Mulcahy Outpatient Center was constructed and in 1986 the 9-story Russo Surgical Pavilion was added. That same year Loyola was designated as a Level I trauma center. Two years later the Lifestar Helicopter Emergency Medical System became operational, followed by completion of the Emergency Care Facility in 1991.

With new innovations in medical care and technology came demands for improvement in medical education. In July of 1997 the new Stritch School of Medicine, designed to facilitate the needs of a modern medical education curriculum, opened its doors to its first incoming class. Soon to follow was the completion of the Center for Health and Fitness. Then, in 2001, the building that houses SSOM was renamed the John and Herta Cuneo Center to house a $80.4 million donation by the Cuneo family.

The most recent addition to the medical campus is the new outpatient center just south of the existing Mulcahy building. The 239,000 square-foot building will allow for expanded outpatient services including added space for diagnostic radiology and ambulatory surgery. Construction began in March 2001, and is slated for completion in April 2003.

Today Loyola's Foster G. McGaw Hospital, including the Vincent P. and Frances G. Russo Surgical Pavilion, is a teaching, tertiary care facility with 556 licensed beds. It has been nationally recognized for its contributions to the study and treatment of cardiovascular disease, peripheral and neonatal disorders, cancer and burn injuries.

Through growth and improvement, the Loyola University Medical Center has continued to fulfill Samuel Cardinal Stritch's dream: that of a major Catholic medical center dedicated to meeting the ever changing needs of the community.

These are the days to remember.

September 11, 2001
We all remember where we were when we heard the news that the United States of America had been viciously attacked. Terrorists hijacked four airplanes flying two into the World Trade Center and the third into the Pentagon. It is believed that the fourth plane was headed toward the White House, but brave passengers overtook the hijackers and crashed it into the ground in Pennsylvania, possibly saving hundreds or thousands of more lives. In total, it is estimated, 3700 lives were lost that day, including the 266 passengers and crew aboard the airplanes. We all became united and many a school, home and vehicle proudly displayed these three words: “GOD BLESS AMERICA”.

Former President of the United States, Jimmy Carter, is awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. Not too bad for a peanut farmer from Georgia.

Salt Lake City hosts the Winter Olympics. The 1980 Gold Medal winning men’s hockey team lights the torch. America brings home 34 medals, a record for the U.S., finishing second in the overall medal count by just one.

The Anaheim Angels show that a rally monkey might just work. After seven games, the Angels became World Champions.

America mourns seven astronauts. The space shuttle Columbia broke into pieces as it prepared for re-entry. All seven aboard were lost, including the first Israeli astronaut, Ilan Ramon.

Third times a charm? Michael Jordan is set to retire... again. He says it’s for real this time. Wait, didn’t he say that last time, and the time before?

Enduring Freedom begins amid strong world anti-war sentiments.

Microsoft is declared by our judicial system to, indeed, be a monopoly. Really? Who would have guessed?

“Time hunger is a concept of our millennium, especially for hurried overloaded students and physicians. We must carefully concentrate on the moment with each course or patient but our mind may be a day, month, and year in the future. We are uneasy when we simply relate, reflect, relax or read. Where are we speeding? Yes, efficient orderly schedules help, but we also need some joy breaks to appreciate the clouds in the sky, speeding like the wind or being barefoot at the seaside.

  Too swift for those who fear
  Too long for those who grieve
  Too short for those who love

“It has been a privilege and honor to be your teacher and friend. Not everyone has the opportunity to help educate the next generation of physicians (and when I get ill, you better know which part of my anatomy is diseased!)

Being a physician brings tremendous responsibilities and obligations. As a practicing surgeon for over 20 years, I was blessed with an understanding wife and family. It is possible to balance family and professional life but it takes devotion, sacrifice and commitment.

Care for every one of your patients; they place their trust in you. My wish is that you have the passion for medicine that I have. Love every minute of it. Call me at 219-874-8471 anytime you want to talk to someone. Good Luck”

Dr. James Kennedy
Department of Surgery

“Patients want you:
To listen, be focused on their care, lay hands on, be current in your knowledge, and to be available. These are the Essentials of Best Medicine (EBM) and all of you now possess these. Do not confuse this with the cold, impersonal, statistically driven, p<0.05 critical pathways of Evidence Based Medicine (EBM).”

Dr. Robert Lichtenberg
Departments of Cardiology and Pediatrics

“10 Things They Didn’t Teach Me in Medical School
But that was in Germany and long, long ago
1. Enjoy being a servant to your patients.
2. Be honest with them and yourself.
3. Try not to judge. It is never helpful and often wrong.
4. Never underestimate the power of listening to your patients – for both of you.
5. Be a loyal travel companion. You might not be able to change the destination, but you can surely change the travel.
6. Think complex, but talk simple.
7. Celebrate even the smallest success with your patients. Give them all the credit.
8. Know your patients, their families, and their communities. Support all three.
9. Make career choices with your heart after you have analyzed them with your brain.
10. Have a group of colleagues you can open your heart and soul to. Talk to them regularly.”

What we have learned in our time at Loyola, four years of training, in fact, four years older.
This last year especially, the months have flown
as our knowledge, our friendships, our debts have all grown.
In light-hearted moments we’ve had Dean Lampesis
to help us forget about diapedesis, from cramming for finals and taxing one’s brain
when the light in the tunnel looked more like a train to retracting on thyroids and fundoplications investing our savings in coffee plantations.
We’ve rounded and rounded with questions skewed toward anything other than what we’ve reviewed.
The labs are all pending, the shift never-ending,
the egos of certain attendings ascending learning to think as doctors and then...
re-learning to talk like people again.
Now smiling, we look to vast horizons as what we’re headed toward.
Pack extra rations, unbridled passion, a lantern and your sword.

MY LORD GOD, I have no idea where I am going. I do not see the road ahead of me. I cannot know for certain where it will end. You do not really know yourself, and the fact that I think I am following your will does not mean that I am actually doing so. But I believe that the desire to please you does in fact please you. And I hope I have that desire to do what you are doing. I hope that you are doing something right for me. And I hope that the road you have me on is the right road though I may know nothing about it. Therefore I have a trust you always though I may have to be lost and on the border of death, I will not hate you for that. I will not hate you, for you are ever with me, and you will never leave me in fact - I love you.

THOMAS MERTON - Thoughts in Solitude

To Amy, Kim, and Dillo - thanks for the hours of studying, the hours of talking when we should have been studying, the prayers, and the wonderful friendship you have shared with me. I am truly blessed to have you (and Heather!) for friends. We are smart, smart people!

And thanks and praise to Jesus Christ my Savior, who gave me this calling and the strength to accomplish it. I can do nothing without You.

Spencer - I never would have made it through anatomy (nor the rest of medical school) without you. Thank you for your strength, encouragement, patience, prayers, and love. You are the other side of me. I love you.

Thanks to my family, for both your support in medical school and for the fun and love we've shared. Mom and Dad, thank you for the loads of laundry and the prayers, love and encouragement. Melanie and Nate, even with many miles between us I can feel your support.

And thanks and praise to Jesus Christ my Savior, who gave me this calling and the strength to accomplish it. I can do nothing without You.

Well, four years of medical school have come and gone. I'd like to thank all my family and friends for the support and good times throughout this time. I wish I had a picture of all the people that mean so much to me, but hopefully you all know who you are. I hope we all find much fulfillment and happiness in our careers and personal lives alike and leave lots of time for the people we love. Good luck to all!

And I am forever grateful.
Mom – Your love, support and confidence mean the world to me. Thank you from the bottom of my heart for helping me achieve my dreams.

Dr. Roseanne & Paul Proteau – Thank you for your love and encouragement and most of all, for being my family.

My sincere thanks to everyone who made this degree possible and supported me during my battle with breast cancer over the past two years. I am most thankful to my God and Savior with whom “All things are possible.” Thank you also to...

Aaron - for supporting me, making me laugh, and always being my very best friend. I love you!

Heather, Candice & Greg - for accepting me and loving me as “Mom.”

Dad & Mom - for praying for me and loving me unconditionally.

Carol & Holly - for encouraging me and being the closest friends.

The Bible study girls - for your incredible friendship and support.
I would like to thank my parents for their great support, and my new wife for her encouragement, patience, and unconditional love.

"For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord. "Plans to prosper you and not to harm you. Plans to give you hope and a future."

"...Thirty years ago my older brother, who was ten years old at the time was trying to get a report on birds written that he'd had three months to write, which was due the next day. We were out at our family cabin in Bolinas, and he was at the kitchen table close to tears, surrounded by binder paper and pencils and unopened books on birds, immobilized by the hugeness of the task ahead. Then my father sat down beside him, put his arm around my brother's shoulder and said, 'Bird by bird, buddy. Just take it bird by bird.'"

- Anne Lamotte
"...The tragedy in life doesn't lie in not reaching your goal. The tragedy lies in having no goals to reach. It isn't a calamity to die with dreams unfulfilled, but it is certainly a calamity not to dream. It is not a disaster to be unable to capture your ideal, but it is a disaster to have no ideal to capture."

Benjamin E. Mays

Many thanks to my family and friends that have encouraged me to dream and supported me on my quest to reach my goals. Without them I would not have come this far. Especially to my mother, father, and sister, I am blessed and so grateful to have the three of you in my life. With much love and admiration I say thank you.
Today is a day that I was renewed spiritually and emotionally with my God. I was reminded of my soul's need to be fed.

All of my senses were touched and awakened.

I remember in my teenage years, my passion and connection which motivated me to dream beyond imagination, without boundaries.

A burning desire, so young and naive a dreamer.

After college, I blossomed into the young woman whom I was nurtured to be.

The encouragement, advice, and example that many women gave me the strength to be.

Soon after, the doors opened to my career in medicine.

That was what I wanted to continue to grow into and become a healer.

I wanted to connect religion, philosophy, God, science, humanity, nature all into one and make it part of my soul.

The spirit, strength, and love of generations before me of oppressed people, great minds, farmers, philosophers was inside of me.

A burning fire.

Then winter came in Chicago and all of that died.

My eternal spring also died.

I no longer had the time or so I thought to enjoy the wind, breeze, rain and ocean.

The sun rays no longer to warm my body.

All of it was gone.

Eternal spring ended.

I experienced death for the first time.

Death of my spirituality and my grandmother's death.

However, my loved ones did not let go and my God was with me.

I died to be reborn again into a much stronger woman.

A woman that is not afraid to love.

A woman that is not afraid to lose.

A woman that is not afraid to fail.

A woman that is not afraid to succeed.

A woman that is not afraid to be real.

A woman that accepts her body.

A woman that can forgive.

My autumn is here and my last challenge is to give beyond myself.

To look beyond my needs.

I am in touch with my connection with God through his/her gift of procreation to all women.

In touch with my ability as a woman to give unconditional love.

In touch with the new challenges and responsibilities before me as a future doctor, daughter, sister, wife, mother and leader.
To laugh often and much;
To win the respect of intelligent people and the affection of children;
To earn the appreciation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends;
To appreciate beauty, to find the best in others;
To leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition;
To know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived.
This is to have succeeded.
God has blessed me with many angels to guide me on my journey, and I wish to extend my thanks. To my friends, colleagues and mentors for their companionship and good advice.

To my parents, Robert and Marlene Landback for raising me to be the woman I am and the doctor I will be.

To my in-laws, Dr. Gerald and Monica Hulvat without whose support I could not have achieved this dream.

And most of all to my beloved husband, James: “I love you not only for what you are, but for what I am, when I am with you.”
To Mom, Dad, Tom, Aldona, Ramou, friends, family: from the bottom of my heart, thank you for your love and support.

New speedy pour stoutly rejected by Guinness drinkers

DUBLIN—Plans by British beverage giant Diageo to cut the time needed to pour the perfect pint of Guinness stout were met with cries of "blasphemy" in the beer's homeland on Saturday.

It has been my experience that folks who have no vices have few virtues. —Abraham Lincoln.

Life p/r: brake, cheek equipment, reorient to ground & sky, jump.
As you journey through life, choose your destinations well, but do not hurry there. You will arrive soon enough. Wander the back roads and forgotten paths, keeping your destination in your heart, like the fixed point of a compass. Seeking out new voices, strange sights, and ideas foreign to your own. Such things are riches for the soul. And if, upon arrival, you find that your destination is not exactly as you had dreamed, Do not be disappointed. Think of all you could have missed, but for the journey there. And know that the true worth of your travels lies not in where you come to be at journey's end, But in who you come to be along the way.
To live life to its fullest... is to look forward to each day as a new adventure.

- to learn from your mistakes, to grow.
- to appreciate the beauty in the world.
- to love yourself, so you can love others.
- to accept differences without criticism and appreciate them for what they are.
- to strive to be a better person.
- to set your goals and work for them.
- to find joy in giving and receiving.
- to find peace within yourself, so that you can appreciate the world around you.
- to be thankful for each new day, and to dream of each new tomorrow as another new adventure.

Thank you Dad, Chris, Bri, Meg, and all the wonderful angels that have guided me along the way of my many adventures. I am forever indebted to you all.

"Life isn’t about keeping score... It’s about how you feel about yourself. It’s about trust, happiness, and compassion. It’s about sticking up for your friends and replacing inner hate with love. Life is about avoiding jealousy, overcoming ignorance, and building confidence. It’s about what you say and what you mean. It’s about seeing people for who they are and not what they have. Most of all, it is about choosing to use your life to touch someone else’s in a way that could never have been achieved otherwise. These choices are what life’s about."

-Nike Ad

Mom, Dad, and Lisa-
Thank you for all of your love and support the past four years. I would not have made it without you. I love you very much.
GOD IS THE TOUGHEST TASKMASTER I HAVE KNOWN. HE TRIES YOU THROUGH AND THROUGH. WHEN YOU FIND YOUR FAITH OR YOUR BODY IS FAILING YOU, AND YOU ARE SINKING, HE COMES TO YOUR ASSISTANCE. HE PROVES TO YOU THAT YOU MUST NOT LOOSE YOUR FAITH... I CANNOT RECALL A SINGLE INSTANCE WHEN, AT THE ELEVENTH HOUR, HE HAS FORSAKEN ME.

Patrick McGovern Piper, MD

To my family and friends - thank you for your love, laughter, support, and encouragement. I couldn't have done this without you.

And to the class of 2003 - it has been an honor to spend the past four years with you. Congratulations and best of luck!

Around me surges a miracle of unceasing birth and glory and death and resurrection: over my sleeping self float flaming symbols of hope, and I wake to a perfect patience of mountains.

My Symphony
by Wm. Henry Channing
To live content with small means;
To seek elegance rather than luxury,
and refinement rather than fashion;
To be worthy, not respectable;
and wealthy, not rich;
To study hard,
think quietly,
talk gently,
act frankly;
To listen to stars and birds,
To babes and sages, with open heart,
to bear all cheerfully,
do all bravely,
await occasions,
hurry never.
...To let the spiritual, unbidden and unconscious,
grow up through the common.
This is to be my symphony.
Look: a moment's gesture of life that stands in for us, smiling while we move what sound and fury is left to another stage.

As the memory of our time dims
without warning, one day,
we will see these faces
as foreign things.

And, staring hard at each expression wrenching all that memory can muster
we tell ourselves, I was happy then.
Even loved.

With one last look, we breath out the sole wish to travel it all again, knowing what life takes away in inconspicuous pieces what we lose and what we miss.
"I know of no more endearing fact than the unquestioned ability of a man to elevate his life by conscientious endeavor."

Henry David Thoreau
To my amazing family - Mom, Dad, Chris, Emile, and Sarah - I love you. Pierre, Karla, and kids you are my home away from home, thank you for everything. Paula and Bob and kids, I have missed you.

To Jenny, my partner in crime, you are illegal, psst.

And finally, thank you God for such a beautiful life.

To my Egyptian brother Bedawy - accelerate/decelerate, China Buffet will miss us.

Tara, Mike and Jo Boo, I couldn’t have made it without you.

To my roomies - Joanie D., Amy and Sarah, we have had so many laughs - would you rather...
i thank You God for most this amazing day for the leaping greenly spirits of trees and a blue true dream of sky and for everything which is natural which is infinite which is yes (i who have died am alive again today, and this is the sun's birthday this is the birth day of life and of love and wing and of the gay great happening illimitably earth)

how should tasting touching hearing seeing breathing any - filled from the no of all nothing - human merely being doubt unimaginable You?

(now the ears of my ears awake and now the eyes of my eyes are opened)

MATCH DAY
MARCH 20, 2003

Four years of hard work and it all came down to this, Match Day. Amongst our family and friends, we waited in anticipation as Dean Wronski gave us the statistics. We were traveling to 32 states for our residencies. Still, the majority were staying in the Midwest. It was shortly after 11am when we finally received our envelopes. No more anticipation. We now knew where the next stage of our lives would take us....

Class of 2003
Richard Bradley Cook, M.D.

The only thing we knew right from the start
Was that you had many gifts
- the greatest of your heart
You always wanted to help those in need
And so you chose medicine
- a noble profession, indeed
Now as you earn your M.D. degree
We pray that your life will be all you hoped it would be

CONGRATULATIONS
WE LOVE YOU AND ARE SO PROUD OF YOU!
Dad, Mom, Shelly, Heather, Grandma and all your Family

Todd Hirschtritt, M.D.

Brod, You always have been and continue to be a source of enjoyment and pride.
Love.
Mom and Dad

Jennifer A. Milosaoljevic, M.D.

Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice; it is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved.
Congratulations on your achievement!
Love.
Mom, Dad, & Lisa

Maria Moscandrew, M.D.

Oh, how proud we are
CONGRATULATIONS!
Love,
Mom, Dad and Nicholas

Jonathon Scott Miller, M.D.

GREAT SCOTT!!!!!
We are very proud of you and love you, Trix & Dad

Andrew L. Makowski, M.D.

Congratulations!
We are so proud of you!
Love.
Mom, Dad & Misty

David N. Sandman, M.D.

Love,
Mom, Dad and Dan

Maura E. Redington

CONGRATULATIONS!
We are very proud of you!
MOM, DAD, ED & YOUR GRANDPARENTS
Congratulations Michael

We are so proud of you.
Congratulations on becoming a physician.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Jamie, Kevin, and Steve

Melissa Hulvat, M.D.

How could we have guessed that you would grow up to be a doctor?

- Was it the propensity for the use of tape and scissors?
- Was it the cardboard, Band-Aid Box, and string brain transfer machine?
- Was it the family inoculations using the Fischer Price doctors kit?
- Was it the consistently poor marks in penmanship?
- Was it your intelligence, curiosity, and sensitivity?

How about all of the above!!! We are so proud of you, Schmoo!

All our love,
Dad & Mom

Anne M. Johnson, M.D.

From Winkie Bear School and Emma Willard to Loyola Med;
How quickly the years have gone.

We are so proud of you.
Lead on, Ranger Rick!

God bless you,
Love, Mom & Dad

Lisa M. Dwornik, M.D.

Congratulations!

We are so proud of your achievement and happy for all of your success.

Love,
Mom, Dad, and Andrew

Your ability to keep things in balance with a calm, steady approach and that crazy sense of humor, has brought you far.

Our love and respect go with you,
Mom and Dad

Joseph F. Rodemann, M.D.

To my beloved son...
With outstretched arms
And limitless idealism
You embraced life’s challenges
In leaps and bounds
Undeterred by tragedy
Driven by love
An inner beauty and strength
Have grown and shone
Whatever the future
Wherever you travel
I will treasure God’s gift to me
The son you’ve become!

Lovingly forever,
Mom

James P. Yess Jr.

GRASSHOPPER

You make our hearts soar!
Brian P. Suffoletto, MD

Achieving the most worthwhile things in life is like climbing mountains; often demanding more than should be expected. Brian, you were always attracted to the hardest routes over the steepest precipices; taking them head-on with apparent ease and finesse. Yet only those closest to you know of the sacrifices and sweat as you toiled to achieve your goals. We are incredibly proud of you accomplishments and wish you the best. Keep seeking mountains to climb!

Congratulations!
You have been an inspiration to us and we love you.
Mom & Dad, Matt & Kathy, and JoAnne.

Cristina E. Vega-Barrera, M.D.

Throughout your life we’ve watched you grow
From that happy, cute little girl who believed in Santa
To a young lady full of hopes and dreams
To an intelligent, beautiful woman who accomplished so much and cured for so many.

We love you very much and we are so proud of you,
God Bless you always.

Love Mom, Jimmy, Jessie, Cristian Del Raso Family and Dad (spiritually)

Geoffrey E. Johnson, M.D.

What a special gift from God you have been for us. You have brought great joy and laughter into our lives. We are very proud of your many academic and athletic achievements. We know you still continue to reach your goals and find happiness along the way. Believe in yourself and always know that we love you and will always be here for you. Our prayers go with you.

God Bless,
Love,
Dad, Mom, and Dave

Greg Roslund, M.D.

To our Music-Maker,
Sweet Dreamer of Dreams,
Kind, Caring, Spirit of Fun,
Cherished Brother, Beloved Son.

To our bright, Shining Star,
Showers of Bravo, Encore,
New Physician, Congratulations!
Celebrate now your Standing Ovations.

Our Love Always,
Mom, Dad and Jeffrey

Josh Takagishi, M.D.

If you can imagine it, you can achieve it.
If you can dream it, you can become it.

Your dream is in sight.
The best is yet to come.
We’re proud of you.
Love, Mom and Dad

Joseph Robert Angelo II, M.D.

CONGRATULATIONS
LOVE
Ma and Dad

Who would have guessed it then
We are so proud of both of you. Congratulations, and may all your dreams continue to come true...

Love,

Live Long & Prosper!

To the Stritch School of Medicine
Class of 2003
Best Wishes and Congratulations on a Threshold Well Crossed!
For all the future thresholds, count on the prayers of

The Jesuit Community of Loyola University Chicago
Congratulations!
and thanks for all the support:

Class of 2003
from Wyckoff-Tweedie Photographers
for all your family, wedding, children & business needs.

The Caduceus staff would like to thank:

★ Dean Michael Lambeius and Lisa Motyger for enduring the constant questions and more than occasional catastrophes. There would be no yearbook without you!
★ Jennifer Cuntz of Walworth Publishing for always being available and able to help.
★ Diane, Dr. Chan and the CALL for their generous assistance.
★ Peter Choi, our last-minute photographer, Greg Roslund, and Aimee DeLee for being excellent unofficial yearbook staffers.
★ Jim Tweedy, Wyckoff-Tweedie Photographers, Oscar Egüeindo, and Medical Photography for their help with the images in this book.
★ The SSOM CLASS OF 2003 for your photos, suggestions, reflections, and patience. This is YOUR YEARBOOK, and it would not have been possible without each and every person's contribution.

THANK YOU!
