The Hippocratic Oath

I swear to fulfill, to the best of my ability and judgment, this covenant:

I will respect the hard-won scientific gains of those physicians in whose steps I walk, and gladly share such knowledge as is mine with those who are to follow.

I will apply, for the benefit of the sick, all measures which are required, avoiding those twin traps of overtreatment and therapeutic nihilism.

I will remember that there is art to medicine as well as science, and that warmth, sympathy, and understanding may outweigh the surgeon's knife or the chemist's drug.

I will not be ashamed to say "I know not," nor will I fail to call in my colleagues when the skills of another are needed for a patient's recovery.

I will respect the privacy of my patient, for their problems are not disclosed to me that the world may know. Most especially must I tread with care in matters of life and death. If it is given to me to save a life, all thanks. But it may also be within my power to take a life; an awesome responsibility must be faced with great humility and awareness of my own fallibility. Above all, I must not play at God.

I will remember that I do not treat a fever chart, a cancerous growth, but a sick human being, whose illness may affect the person's family and economic stability. My responsibility includes these related problems, if I am to care adequately for the sick.

I will prevent disease whenever I can, for prevention is preferable to cure.

I will remember that I remain a member of society, with special obligations to all my fellow human beings, those of my own kind and body as well as the unform.

If I do not violate this oath, may I enjoy life and art, respected while I live and remembered with affection thereafter. May I always act so as to preserve the finest traditions of my calling and may I long experience the joy of healing those who seek my help.

We also treat the human spirit...
Dear Class of 2006

It is with bittersweet emotions that I write to you in this capacity. As you know, I am, in a sense, "graduating" with you. As I end my tenure as dean, there are several thoughts and ideas that seem to push aside many of the mundane issues with which I deal on a daily basis.

The first is that it has been my honor to be your dean. In some ways, that is because you are a very special group of men and women who will soon be wonderful physicians. But, more importantly, the opportunity to "serve" you is what this job is all about and in many ways that's what being a doctor is all about - the opportunity to serve your patients and society. I've watched you grow and mature in your new roles and I believe you understand this responsibility. In the Jesuit tradition, you have become "men and women for others."

The second is that I am very excited for the future of your medical school. I believe we have an exceptional education program that has prepared you as well as any student in the United States. You have participated in the care of patients at the extremes of age with a variety of diseases unparalleled in this country. Clinically, you are ready to deal with any problems you will face in your new career. More importantly, to me, you have learned how to talk to patients and their loved ones; you have learned compassion and empathy; you have learned to care - you are ready to bear the title of "physician."

Your school, Stritch, will always be here to serve your needs. We do hope that in the future, you will maintain your relationship with Stritch. While it may not seem so important now, Stritch will be the place that gave you the opportunity to have the greatest "job" in the world and, when the time is right, it will be appropriate for you to help others to share in your heritage.

So, as I graduate with you and look to a new career and set of goals, I think back 38 years when I was in your shoes and realize that there has never been a single day when I didn't want to go to work. How lucky I have been and how hopeful I am that when you reach this point in life, you'll be able to say the same thing. God speed and God bless.

THE HISTORY OF STRITCH SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

In 1889, Reverend Arnold Damen founded Saint Ignatius College, a liberal arts college on the west side of Chicago. Shortly thereafter, the school was renamed Loyola University Chicago and was relocated to what is now its Lake Shore Campus.

At that time, Chicago boasted several independent medical colleges. In 1909, Loyola became associated with the Illinois Medical College, Benedict and Reliance Medical Colleges joined the affiliation in 1910. By 1915, the school became Loyola University School of Medicine.

In 1917, the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery was purchased to become the first home of the School of Medicine. This building was located on South Wolcott, just adjacent to Cook County Hospital. On February 25, 1920 the medical school earned accreditation from the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

It wasn't until the 1960's that Loyola was able to flourish financially. When Samuel Cardinal Stritch, Archbishop of Chicago, lent his name to an annual fundraising dinner for the school. This became a major source of financial support for Loyola for many years. On April 18, 1968 the Board of Trustees approved a motion to the school to be renamed as the Stritch School of Medicine.

As the school grew, a larger facility was desperately needed, and plans for the construction of a new school and teaching hospital, known as the Loyola Medical Center in 1965. The buildings were to be constructed on a 40-acre parcel of land in Maywood, Illinois, next to the Hines Veterans' Hospital campus. The new medical school opened its doors on January 5, 1969 and the 544-bed St. Joseph Medical Center, named after a generous benefactor, began admitting patients on May 23rd of the same year.

In 1968, the Malachi Outpatient Center was constructed to allow for Loyola's expanding need for space. The building now serves as a location for many administrative offices of Loyola.

In 1968, the 2-story Roza Surgical Pavilion was added to the complex. In the same year, Loyola was designated a Level 1 trauma center. This was implemented by the addition of the Lester W. Redington Emergency Medical System and the completion of the Emergency Care Facility in 1991.

In 1994, a cancer center was built to serve the particular patient population. The center was named for Cardinal Bernardin in 1996 after he received care in the facility.

Again, the school grew its accommodations, and in July 1997, the current Stritch School of Medicine opened its doors to the class of 2001. The building was greeted with the names of its generous contributors: John and Helga Cuneo. The Center for Health and Fitness was also added to Loyola's campus at this time.

The most recent addition to Loyola is the Outpatient Center on the south end of campus. It opened in late 2001, including an ambulatory surgery facility, a brand new MRI machine, and rooms for all of the specialty clinics.

Loyola University Health System currently is a teaching tertiary care facility with 500 licensed beds. It continues to be nationally recognized for its excellence in many different fields. Cardinal Stritch would be dedicated to meeting the ever-changing needs of the community it serves.

St. Luke
Patron Saint of Physicians

The central figure is St. Luke, the patron saint of medicine. His robe is green, the symbolic color of both life and medicine. The red heart in the center of his chest not only represents God’s love and life for others, but also symbolizes biology and physiology. The red staff of Asclepius in his hand is an ancient Greek and Roman symbol of healing. The figure’s prominent hands symbolize caring for others, community and society through public health initiatives. St. Luke is walking down a yellow gravel path that represents the golden path of life.

St. Luke’s eyes direct the viewer to the panels on the left which are comprised of symbols of core clinical and basic science disciplines. These include a mortar and pestle representing pharmacology and pharmacy, the Greek word ‘“’symbolizing public health and hygiene, and a scalpel for surgery, forces for obstetrics and gynecology, a tube used as an early stethoscope for medicine, a gendarme face with ‘‘Rx’’ and male and female symbols for psychiatry and the behavioral sciences, a flask of ether for both chemistry and the major advances in the medical sciences, a skull representing anatomy, a book as a source of knowledge with ‘DNA’, the basic unit of life and ‘‘’’(pencillitis), one of the major advances in the fight against infection.

The window also includes three large panels to the right of St. Luke. The first depicts Mother Cabrini, a saint of a local Italian order of nuns who is a saint and was the founder of the first Catholic hospital. The second features a face peering into a microscope. The microscope is a symbol of pathology, microbiology, and science. The face represents a medical student in his or her quest to master knowledge of disease. The third panel depicts Mother Theresa, a saint who spent her life caring for the sick and poor, holding an infant as a symbol of pediatrics.

There are a variety of other symbols in the central panel including two flowers. The purple flower on the right is forget-me-not, the symbol of digestion. The red flower on the left is a poppy, the source of opium and morphine. The words ‘‘Primeirum non nocere’’ translate to ‘First do no harm’, the first rule of medicine dating back to the age of Hippocrates. ‘‘Homo medicus a Deus eximius medicus’’, a quotation from the Old Testament, states that one is to honor the physician because he or she derives wisdom from God. Finally, the name of Raphael, the archangel, appears in association with the winged seraphic Cabezon, the guardian of science and knowledge. In Hebrew this name means ‘healer of God’. It is also the baptismal name of Dr. Ralph P. Leischner, an honored Loyola physician who worked with the artist David Lee Czirko, in the design of this window.

To our families: We made it! Thanks for being our cheering section through the ups and downs of the past four years. We couldn’t have done it without you. To the Class of 2006: We will never forget the fun times of lecture hall, studying for board exams, and seeing all of your smiling faces at five a.m. for morning rounds! You have inspired us and laughed with us—we wish you all the very best.

Tim and Leigh

Class of 2006
Thank you so much to my friends and family—especially my husband Pete. You've been so wonderful and supportive—I couldn't have done it without you!

Love, Katy
To my family: Thanks to my mom for her three hour chats, my dad for early morning grapefruit science lessons, my sister for scaring away bullies for me, my aunt for themed emails and cards, my grandpa who "encouraged" me to hit home runs, my uncle who taught me to fish, my brother-in-law for introducing Tim to explosives, cousin Rita for our crazy times in the villa, and my nephews and nieces for keeping me on my toes.

To my friends: Thanks to Tim for being Tycho's best friend, to EI and Em for a lifetime of memories and eight years of emails and phone calls, to Erik who wears many hats including mover, guy and five star chef, to TA 31 and the VC crowd for cross country love, to Liza and Liz, thanks for ladies who lunch and margarita marathons, Cassie and Ler for fun-yak inspired camping trips, Rebecca who spent a year trapped with me in a two-flat and lived to tell the tale, and all the other wonderful people I met and spent time with at Stritch.
The Starfish

An old man was walking on the beach at dawn when he noticed a young man picking up starfish stranded by the retreating tide, and throwing them back into the sea one by one. The old man approached the young man and asked him why he was doing this. The young man replied that the starfish would die if left exposed to the morning sun. "But the beach goes on for miles," exclaimed the old man, "and there are thousands of starfish. You will not be able to save them all. How can your effort make a difference?" The young man looked at the starfish in his hand and threw it to safety in the waves. "To that one," said the young man, "it made a difference."

Some people come into our lives and quickly go. Some people move our souls to dance. They stay in our lives for awhile, leave footprints on our hearts, and we are never, ever the same.
Kathryn Gallagher, MD
Aaron Gerds, MD
Nicholas Gruenwald, MD

I am eternally grateful for the love, patience, and support that my beautiful wife has provided me while in medical school. Without her, I surely would have lost my way.

Matthew Harinstein, MD

Thank you to my entire family for their constant belief in me. Without them, I never could have come this far.
Thank you... to Mom and Dad, for the complete and unwavering love and support, always. to my sister, Christy, for the cooking, cards, and calls, and for you. to Eric, for the love and devotion, and for taking me outside of medical school now and then. to Gwen, for VC pride, and being my first link from the past who joined me in the future. to Liz, for the reminder that staying true to our emotions helps us survive, and for Dance! to Jim, for the Jamba Juice, suburban Chinatown, and the margaritas. to Adrienne, for being the first person to see me cry at school, and sticking by me. to Dawn, for being the rock, always cool, calm and collected; even when you were a diva. to Anja, for Marmot, for brownies, and for the ability to smile through almost anything. to Tara and Ethan, for the overwhelming love, and for continually keeping me humble. to The C-9 Girls, for always being able to come together just as we were. And to everyone who has been there for me throughout these last four years: I will never forget all of the support and assistance on this difficult road. Thank you for being a part of my life.
Carrie Holland, MD

Medical school was the most challenging four years of my life and I know better than to think I would have persevered through it without assistance. Thank you Mom, Dad, Grandma, Libby, Tim, Jerry, Kelly, and everyone else in my family who prayed for me and supported me through thick and thin. But, most of all, my heartfelt thanks must go to Lindsey. Without you to be my rock of support, I don’t know how this odyssey would have ended. As the famous poem ‘Footprints’ says, ‘During your times of trial and suffering (and there were plenty), when you see only one set of footprints, it was then’ that Lindsey carried me.
Thank you to all my family and friends, near and far, for helping to make the last four years so memorable!

Thank you so much to my Mom and Dad, friends and family. It's been a long road but you've always been there for me. I love you all...and God only knows where I'd be without you!
To my parents and family: Thank you for supporting me before this journey ever started.

To my sisters: Thank you for being my best friends.

To Matt: Thank you for enabling me to go to med school and meet a boy! You fulfill me.

To my friends: Thank you for lifelong friendship. The last four years were amazing.

I love you all,

From: The Student Affairs Office
Subject: YOU MADE IT!

We would like to add our congratulations to those many others you have received. It has truly been our pleasure in getting to know and work with each of you during your time with us.

Can you believe how fast that time has gone? Do you remember cramming into room 150 that first day of Orientation and being forced to talk to one another? How about your first exam in MCBG? Do you recall your first day of Structure in the Anatomy Lab? What about your first day in the Clinical Skills area, or even better, the first day on the floors? What about those interviews that just now seem to have ended? And finally, Graduation, a day that at times looked so far away, is now upon us and most of you will be going to points all over the country.

Know that you will be missed, but at the same time we could not be more proud of you. You take with you a confidence, assuredness and training that will serve you well in your years as a physician. We know you will be successful and that you will stand tall in your medical pursuits. We also believe that you will represent us well, and further strengthen the name and reputation of Loyola Stritch wherever your goals may lead you.

Finally, welcome to our family of alumni. We hope that in the near future you will get to meet some of them during your residency. We look forward to seeing you at a reunion or two, and maybe even as a future member of our faculty.

Remember to stop by whenever you are in the neighborhood, as we would love to be among those who can say, “Welcome home.”

Until we meet again, congratulations and good luck to all of you.

Dear all:

Shown embedded in the pages of this yearbook are snapshots depicting how much our lives have been intertwined the past four years. From the most intense times: studying for exams and early AM rounds to the happiest moments: Match Day in the Atrium and post-test gatherings, the SSOM Class of 2006 has become a strong united community of family and friends. Now we move forward as physicians and take these priceless memories and experiences with us, shaping our new roles as health care providers and teachers. Best wishes to everyone and we hope to see you in 5 years at the reunion!

“May your best day in the past be your worst day in the future.”

Sincerely,
Class of 2006 – Senior Class Officers

Congratulations Class of 2006! We have come so far, and we will carry all of these great memories with us as we continue on our journey. Thanks for all the long days of lecture, studying marathons, nights on call, never-ending rounds on the wards, fun parties and dances, and, especially, for all the great friendships. We are proud to be graduating with such a fantastic group of our colleagues and friends! We hope you enjoy your yearbook— all of the memories between these covers are possible because of every one of you!

Best wishes,
The Yearbook Staff

Adrienne, Jaclyn, Janet, Rachel, and Terry

Special Thanks to Dean Lambesis, Dee Harris and our third year staff members: Sarah Brickey, Elizabeth Eichner and Megan Rich

Thanks also to:
Angie Ingraham, Wajeeh Salah, Christine Yu, Judy Chen, LUHS Medical Photography, Wyckoff-Tweedie Photographers, Loyola Medicine, and everyone who turned in pictures for use in the yearbook... thanks so much!!!
